

Olive gave her best and we who are left find our lives just a little brighter having had the pleasure of walking with her for such a little while along the pathway of life.

As someone so aptly expressed these words, -

Not farewell to all my friends,
But just walking on ahead
around the next bend.